PREACHER HEAD CLOSES REVIVAL

Dodges Issue by Asserting That His Attack on Pool Halls Was Resented.

Wednesday night marked the close of Rev. Mr. Head's tent revival.

In his closing service, the evangelist apparently tried to dodge the issue he raised when he attempted to condemn the amusement of the Y. M. C. A. He defended his attack on pool halls and showed where they had caused the ruin of many men. Nobody took issue with him in his attack on the public pool halls; it is admitted that they have done injury. It is to protect the boys from these places that the pool and billiard tables were installed in the Y. M. C. A. The preacher read a letter from a man that told how the man had gone to a small town to avoid the temptations of a great city, and how, after he had secured a good position, he began to frequent the pool halls and had finally got to gambling as a result, and when in need of money, had used some that belonged to the company. The letter stated that he had been restored and again had fallen into the same lines. One night while in one of these places word was brought him that his wife had died at home while he had been playing in the hall.

"Now," said Mr. Head, "that man's downfall was hatched and originated in that angelic (?) holy (?) godly (?) place that the men of this city are so quick to defend when a preacher says anything about it."

"You may think from the papers, that everybody is against me in what I have said about the pool halls, but I have had a number of men to stop me on the street and say that they knew I was right about it."

"And just today, a man who says he is an infidel and no believer in religion, came to me and said: 'Mr. Head, I heard your sermon Sunday night and I think you are exactly right.' I have heard the people saying how hard it is to have a revival in this city. If you could close up the saloons and pool rooms, it would be an easier matter to win the young men to Christ. I know, because in one place where I held a meeting we closed two pool halls during the meeting and burned the tables, and as soon as that was done, we had 65 conversions among the young men. In another place we closed three and had more conversions. I want to say that I am a friend to the young men of this city, and what I say, I am not saying about them, but about what they do."

Y. M. C. A. STARTS A NOVEL CAMPAIGN

Efforts to Be Made to Secure New Members During Fall and Winter.

A dash for the south pole will be made next week by the boys of the Y. M. C. A. The boys' department will be divided into two teams for the journey, and a flag will be presented the winners.

It is merely a novel campaign fund idea. Frank Ross's expedition will leave El Paso for the frigid south by way of New York city, while Nelson Rheinheimer and his faithful followers will make the trip via San Francisco. Every dollar brought in by a new member gained will count 40 miles. It is about 8,000 miles to the pole. A chart map will show the location of the teams during the race.

This campaign idea will be launched at the older boys' banquet Saturday night, the formal opening of the year's work. The younger boys will dine Friday night. The boys' banquets are yearly institutions at which the mothers furnish the good things.

MISS HABER IN EL PASO.
